The Teacher of All

To become a Master of Wisdom is to have outgrown the trials and tribulations of the human condition and to have entered a realm of awareness that defies human comprehension at present. One of its characteristics is the ‘peace that passes understanding’—the state of perfect peace achieved through alignment with divine will. Undisturbed by happenings in the external world, members of the spiritual Hierarchy formulate the plan of evolution for Earth and guide its unfoldment. Overseeing the work of this spiritual body is the Christ, the head of the Hierarchy, who is soon to leave this peaceful enclave to return to a lower dimension of life.

One of the requirements for acceptance into this hierarchy of light is the willingness to assume responsibility for the life that is our planet. In the life of a human being, a preparatory experience is assuming responsibility for self and family, in a spirit of harmlessness, plus dedication to the common good as demonstrated through a life of service. When the consciousness of the soul transcends the limitations of the human condition, a door opens to the spiritual realm. Upon entry into this realm, a vista of planetary dimensions appears. This becomes the new ground of shared responsibility.

The work of members of the spiritual Hierarchy is characterized by boundarylessness. Earth is perceived as a single organism; humankind is recognized as a single race. In the vastness of space where Earth revolves within the Sun's system, an order of cosmic scale is perceived. The seemingly unchanging nature of this order is visible in the regularly recurring movements of the planets. However, known to the Beings who oversee planetary evolution is that which can and does change over time: the consciousness that ensouls all forms, be they planetary lives, such as Earth, or species of life, such as human.

From ancient times, it has been the responsibility of the spiritual Hierarchy to expand the consciousness of human beings so that they may, in the ripeness of time, play their destined role in Earth's evolution. Their work has taken on vastly heightened importance at this momentous turning-point. The future of Earth depends upon humanity's rising to the stage of soul consciousness in the coming era.

The Hierarchy's work in this regard slowed considerably after the sinking of Atlantis, as a result of human destructiveness. The spiritual guides of the race withdrew from the outer plane for an extended period, until the epoch of the Great Ones began several thousand years ago. One after another, individual members of the Inner Ashram, whose luminosity sparked the forward strides of humanity, appeared on Earth. Their spiritual teachings gave rise to world religions; their philosophical explorations laid bare the higher potentials of the human being. Each in their own distinctive way issued a call for the race to develop these potentials.

Among these Great Ones, the mission of Christ was unique. He came into outer manifestation to elevate the human spirit by his living example. Unlike predecessors who gave rise to other faiths, he came not to teach laws or precepts primarily, but to live among his people and demonstrate through his humanness the potential of the race to reach a higher stage of consciousness. To his disciples, he illustrated what was possible for them to achieve in their own time.

Since the period of the resurrection, Christ has served as the head of the spiritual Hierarchy, under the guidance of the planetary logos or God of our Earth. In this role, he assumed the mantle of responsibility, along with the Masters of Wisdom, for guiding the evolution of the 4th kingdom in nature, the human, to the point where it can cooperate with the 5th, the spiritual. This is the core of the divine Plan for the coming age. It has long been foreseen that over time, humanity will fulfill its destined role as mediator in the life of Earth, aligning the consciousness of the lesser kingdoms with the higher ones, and with the will of the Lord of our World.

Not long ago, it was deemed by the planetary Logos and members of His inner council that sufficient progress had been made by an advanced corps of human beings to enable Christ to usefully return to the denser planes of life and establish his new mission. He would not only embody the divinity of the human Soul—for the many to observe and the few to emulate—he would also instruct awakening humanity on the methods and means for reaching this higher stage of consciousness.

He would become the teacher of all who yearn to know how to rise above the conditions of tribalism, treachery, ruthlessness, debauchery, life-denying selfishness and greed—all the distortions and delusions of the lower human self that have thwarted the expression of the True Self across the ages and up to the present time. He would begin this Great Work at the culmination of the Piscean Age, when all seemed lost for humanity, when a shroud of darkness hovered over the future, and when, in the antechamber to the Aquarian Age, the Light of Truth could find an avenue into human minds and hearts.
